"DO IT NOW" AN APT MAXIM

Don't Put Off Till Tomorrow What Should Be Done Today.

"Procrastination is the thief of time." The big word is more than that; in many cases it is the annihilation of good eyesight. When the eyes are working under a strain just as the human body, they sooner or later will cease to work. They rebel against work under such conditions. If the person does not heed the warning and continue to use his eyes under the strain the sight rapidly grows poorer.

Every man in Christendom who has optical knowledge insists upon immediate attention upon the first warning.

Dr. Masrow has for more than 2 months preached the same doctrine to Dothanites, many of whom have heeded his words and sought relief. He has worked on stubborn cases and has succeeded in giving relief where relief had been pronounced impossible by others.

If you have had a warning of impaired sight don't drop into the "has been" class, but go to Dr. Masrow and enlist the aid of properly fitted glasses. Dr. Masrow's office is at 111 E. Main street, over the Cash Drug Store. He can be seen Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

G. Farmer, W. L. Lee of Columbia, and G. L. Tompkins.

ATLANTIC COAST LINE'S DISPLAY

An education in itself is the display of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company. It occupies the entire eastern end of the new horticultural building just inside the sixteenth street gate and is in charge of Gay A. Cardwell, of Wilmington, North Carolina, as the railway company's agricultural and immigration agent. There have been many strong agricultural exhibits at former Lebanon fairs, but they pale before that of the Atlantic Coast Line, with which they are not to be compared.

The railroad passes through a stretch of Southern country, five thousand miles in length, extending through Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama and its exhibit is made up of the fruit and forage products of these states. The railroad company has undertaken to exploit the country which its system taps and in providing the display presents a most conclusive argument in favor of its proposition to go there and thrive with the fast growing agricultural life.

Everybody of the many thousands who have inspected the display have marvelled at the size and beauty of the fruits, which are preserved in large glass jars, and the forage of tremendous growth and undoubted value. The fruits include grapes, strawberries, pears, peaches, lemons, pineapples, tomatoes, and many others. There is the finest kind of corn, tobacco, sweet potatoes, watermelons, pumpkins, etc. And all of it has been arranged most tastefully and to the best advantage of the hour. From Lebanon (Pa.) Daily Times, Aug. 19, 1914.

10c For Cotton, War Or No War

When the European war is ended there will be the greatest demand for bookkeepers and stenographers ever known, and at the present price of cotton the supply will not be sufficient to meet one-half of this demand.

In order to make it possible for the worthy boy and girl to reap the bene fit that is justly theirs and to show our desire to assist in every way possible, we will give you 10 cents per pound for such an amount of cotton as is necessary to pay for the cost to the college for such a course as is desired. We will hold this cotton until January first, 1915, and if there is a rise in the price at that time we will give you the benefit of it, less cost of storage and insurance. If the price is lower, we stand the loss without obligation on your part.

Nothing could be fairer, so stop talking war and send that boy or girl at once. Write or call for further particulars.

CAMPBELL INSTITUTE

J. D. Campbell, Pres.

WHY NOT DOTHAN?

Mr. Editor: Many towns and cities throughout the South are adopting the "Buy-a-bush-of-cotton" idea. Why not Dothan? This will not relieve the situation fully, still it serves to loosen things up some, puts some money in circulation, and encourages the farmer.

Another thing. Is the business men of Dothan will advise the farmers that they will accept cotton in payment of all, or a portion of their indebtedness, on a basis of ten cents a pound, it would have a most beneficial effect. The war that has caused the slump in cotton cannot last long, it is too big a drain in the matter of money, food stuffs as well as men. The different countries of Europe are talking about a long war in order to bluff the other fellow, but these who are most familiar with the Paris, Sept. 10.—The right wing of the German army is still retreating. Desperate fighting still marks battle along the center where Germans are making determined efforts to hold their positions.

NATURALIZATION FAULT TO SAVE U. S. GERMANS

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 10.—Despite the fact that he had taken out his first naturalization papers and expected to become a full-fledged American citizen, Hugo Beyer, a former employe of the M. Rumely Company, of this city, has been pressed into the service of the German army.

He and his wife were visiting Mr. Beyer's parents at Torgau, Germany when war was declared, and he was forced to take up arms.

Doesn't matter what you want, go first to the Red Front 5 and 10c Store. They sell a little of almost everything and sell it for less.

entire situation, say that the war cannot last long. Just as quick as peace is in sight the cotton market will go to bounding upward. The merchants of the South can therefore well afford to take cotton on account on a basis of ten cents per pound to the farmer. This will be an immense help. It will encourage the farmer, help sustain the market right now as the cotton need not be sold. If necessary it can be used through the banks as collateral for loans. Let us do this, gentlemen.

The Chamber of Commerce might well take this matter in hand, and the business men in regard to the matter. If this news could be sent out through the county, it would have an instantaneous effect.

Business Men.

STOP THE WAR TALK, GO TO WORK

We have had enough of war talk! Cut it out! It was perfectly natural that immediately following the outbreak of European hostilities that it should be the universal topic of conversation. It has now reached the point where the thing is being overdone. In the cotton fields, one year's demonstration of these in the hotels and banks, one hears things will satisfy the farmers and little else discussed. Cut it out! show them what can be done. The constant thinking and talking result will be they will never return to a one crop system. In this spinning, what is inherently, a sound business condition.

This is the situation: The war has and next spring the farmers of Houston denormalized the cotton market. On ten county can plant grain crops and this account cotton will be sold very use them in raising hogs. A cash crop this season. As we are so de market in Dothan for live stock is pondent in the South on cotton, bus going to be a big help. And now in less in this section will be dull for conclusion, stop the war talk, watch the next twelve months. It is time your expenditures, make the best of for economy, a time for caution in a bad situation. The sun is shining, matter of expenditures for a while, our country has made tremendous BUT IS NO TIME FOR EXERCISE crops which means big prosperity for a big section of the country which raises grain crops. Next year we will prepare to get some of this ton situation brought about by the Stop the war talk and go to work.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination as alderman from ward 1, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, September 14th.

W. T. Maglietary.

If the "buy-a-bale-of-cotton" movement keeps spreading for the next few days as it has during the last week or ten days, it is bound to do some good. Thousands of people throughout the South could buy a bale of cotton and lay it aside. Take it off the market, and when it is done, it is likely to retire enough cotton to make the present one go up and it would hurt nobody. The man who buys the bale of cotton is merely depositing the money temporarily, with the very best security. The security stands more chance to increase than it does to depreciate in value. The security is good enough to risk putting that much money in, when the effort will help to break over these low priced cotton times.

Georgia instituted the movement a few days ago, and it was taken up by the cotton states, and now bids fair to accomplish something. At first, it looked as if it would be too big an undertaking to get all interested, but the people jumped at it.

It is thought that four to five million bales will be bought up and taken off the market. That will do away with surplus created by the European war.

Every man who wants business to get back to normal condition should buy a bale of cotton and put it away.

Once this war is over this country will not be about preparing to keep off a panic should another war start. And the people of this country will learn a valuable lesson on economy. They will learn that it is important to pay as they go. If this country was out of debt it would not suffer much as a result of the war, for the cotton farmer could lay his cotton aside till the price got to where he wanted it.

The various commercial bodies of the South are doing much to get the people together as a way to stem the tide. The commercial bodies should have the backing of the people. They do much for the people, and ought to have the people's backing.

MORE REST FOR THE GOVERNOR.

In the place of taking a long not fashionable vacation, so much sought by best society, Governor O'Neal has a way of taking a sensible vacation without leaving the sleepy old Capital at Montgomery. He has just discovered that his life has been made burdensome by people with pain, who sit around in the back office, seeking pardons for the law violating friends back home. The governor has given it out that no one dare approach him for clemency for their friends, unless it is in the behalf of one who is to stretch his leg. He will have his secretary look over his correspondence, at his leisure, but he is sick and tired of his office being eternally filled with people who want pardons and paroles, just because he set a bad example in the outset by pardoning a few specially good friends, known in their home towns as blind tiger operators. All of us make mistakes, and it is partly to acknowledge them when it is seen that they are mistakes. The governor realizes that he made mistakes, and now he is taking the best method he knows to make amends. He will let pleas for pardons come through the regular channels, and the "political leader" of the various counties, cannot longer collect pardoning fees from convicts with any hope of getting the governor off in one corner and whispering something into his ear. His ears will hear them no more. He wants the reasons committed to paper, that he may read them when he pleases, or pitch them in the waste basket.

Thus, another busy man gets rest—much needed, and we believe Gov. O'Neal has taken a wise step. Had he been standing for re-election he probably couldn't have taken a winter stop. Unwittingly he has kept Alabama from building a lot of good roads. As it is, many miles of road have been built, but he has put men back around their old haunts, who would have been a great moral influence for the good of their community had they remained on the rock pile, so to speak. From this day forward, it would seem that a hard labor sentence means what the court says, should it go up to the governor for mercy.

Meantime, the governor has a vacation. He has time to attend to some other business of the office.

REFORM IN SCHOOL STUDIES.

Savannah News.

William Penn High School in Philadelphia has taken a step which some prominent educators would like to see taken by high schools all over the country, and that shows how some time honored ideas as to what is necessary to an "education" are being laid on the shelf.

In the first place girls at the school will not be compelled to study algebra. Principal Lawls cannot see how algebra can be the slightest help to a girl whose career will be home-making or even one who looks forward to a business life. And the foreign languages will be optional. The students will be deeply grounded in English, but they won't be compelled to dig into any other language, dead or alive. Physics and chemistry so far as they will aid girls to select wholesome foods, properly govern the affairs of their kitchens and know the value of proper lighting, heating and venting, will be taught instead.

Some old-fashioned teachers who think it sacrilege to cut algebra from the curriculum and who insist that every girl should have a smattering of Latin, Greek, French and German may hold up their hands in horror at Philadelphia's radical step, but, after all, is not Philadelphia right? Will it not be worth more the administration.

to the average girl to know how to keep a home clean and provide her table with wholesome food than to be able to say offhand what is the square of a—b? The William Penn girls will also be given a course in Philadelphia government, which should satisfy the suffragists among them.

MUNICIPAL FINANCES.

Savannah News.

It isn't a matter of wonder that so many cities have adopted the commission plan of government. Many cities and counties, if not the most of them that elect their officials have floating debts of greater or less proportions. The officials, composed largely of politicians, are more interested in distributing money among those who helped to put them in office or on whom they depend to keep them there than they are in the public welfare, and hence they not only spend all the available income but also use all the credit they can get. Then they either have to raise assessments, put up the tax rate or stop all improvements. There ought to be laws compelling them to live within their incomes.

New York is an example of what may be expected from government by politicians. Just now she is worrying over a floating debt of $80,000,000 or more that she owes on notes that were floated in Europe. Notwithstanding her immense revenue she managed to create this large floating debt. And she isn't finding it easy to pay it. It must be paid between now and next January and the rate of exchange is so high that it is costing her a pretty penny to meet the obligation.

There is no doubt that with economy she could have paid for all the improvements that she has made without incurring the debt she is now trying to pay but such a thing as economy isn't in the vocabulary of her political rulers. Her people ought not to complain if they have high taxes and have to submit to the exactions of the money lenders. They have only themselves to blame. Eventually all cities will put their affairs in the hands of a manager, who has been trained for his duties, as has been done by many European cities and some of the cities in this country.—Savannah News.

If you don't want to do anything, don't say you can find no precedent for it. Precedents are worth nothing, except to show future generations what fools lived during this time. It is a poor country that can't outgrow, and outlaw a precedent, if it's a bad one.

LONDON IN WAR TIME

By HERBERT TEMPLE

(European Manager of the International News Service)

London Sept. 9.—London the largest city in the world with its cosmopolitan population of seven millions has not as yet shown any visible signs of the war except for the movement of troops and the crowds in the streets reading the newspaper bulletins. But it is not impossible that the great city may before the stupendous conflict ended, feel the privations of martial rule.

Under the new Defense of the Realm act, the following are some of the regulations that the military authorities may put into effect:

Any building may be seized by the military authorities and if necessary destroyed.

No one may spread reports likely to alarm the civilian population. No one may loiter near a railway.

No one may give or sell liquor to a soldier on duty.

Any person who breaks any of the regulations given in the act may be tried either by court martial or be handed over for trial to the civil authorities.

The authorities are given the right of access to any land and buildings and are empowered to take possession of any land and to construct military works including roads thereon, and to remove any trees, bridges and fences therefrom.

Take possession of any land and other property including water for the supply of munitions, water and of any sources of water supply.

Take such steps as may be necessary for placing any buildings or structures in a state of defense.

Any building or structure in a state of defense or any property to be moved from one place to another or to be destroyed.

Do any other act involving interference with private rights of property which is necessary for the purpose aforesaid.

Order the inhabitants of any area near a defended harbor to leave the neighborhood.

Order them to remove vehicle and boats and destroy military stores in their possession.

Order public houses near any defended harbor to close between specified hours.

Order people at a defended harbor to keep lights out between certain hours.

Order people at a defended harbor to remain in doors between specified hours unless they have a permit allowing them to leave their homes.

Enter by force any building, ship and seize anything which there is reason to suspect is intended for any purpose prejudicial to the public safety.

Any police constable officer of customs or any other person authorized for the purpose by the competent civil or military authority may arrest without warrant any person whose behavior is of such a nature to give reasonable grounds for suspecting that he has acted or is acting or is about to act in a manner prejudicial to the public safety or the security or upon whom may be found an article, book, letter or other document the possession of which gives grounds for such a suspicion or who is suspected of being committed an offense against these regulations.

Anyone who knows that another person has in his possession firearms, explosives or ammunition with out lawful authority must inform the authorities. This does not apply to shot guns and ammunition for them.

It is announced that ordinary civil offenses will be dealt with by the civil authorities but a number of offenses will be dealt with by courts martial. These offenses include:

Unlawfully publishing, divulging or communicating military information which might be useful to the enemy.

Making photographs, plan sketches or models of naval or military works.

Communicating with telegraph or telephone wires.

Carrying or selling liquor to a member of his Majesty's forces when on duty or other duty.

Disrupting a railway or railway bridge.

Spreading reports by word of mouth or writing near a defended harbor likely to create disaffection or alarm among the troops or the civilian population.

Entering the area of a defended harbor without permission.

Courts martial will have power to inflict sentences of penal servitude for life.

Sick Women Attention

Is it possible there is a woman in this country who continues to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, which proves beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world?

We have published in the new papers of the United States more genuine testimonials than have ever been published in the interest of any other medicine for women—and every year we publish many new testimonials, all genuine and true. Here are three never before published:

From Mrs. S. T. Richmond, Providence, R. I.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—"For the benefit of women who suffer as I have done I wish to state what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I did suffer for a long time and the doctor said it caused my placement. I have it every week and I have worked after my baby was born and I am now a mother of three children. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The compound is my best friend and when I hear of a woman with trouble I advise her to try to induce her to take your medicine. Mrs. S. T. Richmond, 109 Waldo Street, Providence, R. I."

A Minister's Wife Writes:

CROCKETT, MISS.—"I have suffered very much with irregularities, pain and inflammation, but your wonderful medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, has made me well and I am the same to all that are troubled with these complaints."—Mrs. J. S. Crockett, 1000 N. W. Ave., Crockett, Minnesota.

From Mrs. J. D. Murdoch, Quincy, Mass.

QUINCY, MASS.—"The doctor said that I had organic trouble and he declared me for a long time and I did not get any relief. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and I tried it and found it before I had finished the first bottle. I continued taking it all through middle life and am now a strong, healthy woman and can run my own house. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is my best friend. Mrs. J. D. Murdoch, 25 Gordon St., North Quincy, Mass."

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

APPALLING

Appalling is the amount spent each year in fitting out the children for school. Why not save the greater part of this by sending us these worn and faded garments for our attention? We will dye them or clean them and return them to you looking like new and at a fraction of the cost of new ones. Why not call us today? Cold weather is almost here.

ONE OF MORGAN'S MEN

National Magazine.

Girl of the yellow roses,
In the glow of a bygone day,
Dark were your eyes with dreaming,
Watchful your smile away.
And I your gay young lover,
Had small chance of wooing you then;
For you were a girl of Kentucky
And I, one of Morgan's men.

I saw you, you yet as you waited
Watch the elm by the old yard gate,
And your heart beat fast as my horse's hoofs,
For young love had found his mate.
High were my hopes and my heart, dear,
I laughed at your bodings then,
And I left you, My Lady of Roses,
To ride with Morgan's men.

Hurry of hoofs on the moonlit road,
Flashing of swords in flight,
Daredevil song midst the roar of guns
Daredevil charge through the night.
Here with the twilight shadows;
There, when day broke again;
Like the bolt of the fierce white lightning,
Was the rush of Morgan's men.

But the war was not for our winning
Girl of the days of yore!
Others we were and outnumbered,
Beaten and bruised and sore.
Yet from defeat you called me,
Back to your heart again,
And lifted your loyal lips to my kiss
Alas for Morgan's men!

Love, the breath of your roses
Was never half so sweet
As your smile, when into the way of peace
You guided my weary feet,
And the dreams you were dreaming
Now all come true for a fellow
One of Morgan's men.
